HITTITE CUISINE

“You will eat the bread, and drink the water.” I. Hattušili

From 3000 year old tablets Hittite flavours that have survived to the present day.

Limited Reservation Every Thursday & Friday 19:30 - 21:45

HOT HIBISCUS SHERBET

Hibiscus flowers are soaked in lukewarm water for a few hours, and the initial water is drained. Cinnamon, cloves, lemon salt, and sugar are added, and the mixture is simmered over low heat. Once the flowers have released their essence, they are strained, and the sherbet is served hot.

HATTUSA SOUP Dairy Products, Gluten, Mustard

Local milk tarhana (fermented soup base made with wheat and milk), mutton, and salt are simmered for a long time over low heat. The soup is garnished with butter, cumin, thyme, sage, mustard, mint, green onion, and garlic. Milk tarhana is made by cooking whole wheat in milk and then breaking it into small pieces.

HAPENA

Thinly sliced, lean lamb necks are seasoned with rock salt and slow-cooked in a lamb stone oven in a method akin to biryan. Once the meat becomes tender enough to separate from the bone, it is flavoured with bone marrow, boiled lamb brain, thyme, and black pepper, then served with a tangy plum sauce.

SOUR PLUM-STUFFED CHERRY LEAVES Dairy Products, Gluten

A filling is prepared using cracked bulgur, fine bulgur, flour, and salt. Cherry leaves, soaked in hot water to remove their salt, are carefully stuffed and cooked in a pot. The stuffed cherry leaves are served with a sauce made of strained yoghurt, flour, water, a pinch of salt, and sour plum extract. Caramelised onions and plum sauce are poured over the yoghurt during serving.

KARIYE SALTED DISH Dairy Products, Gluten

Fresh lamb liver and heart are delicately peeled of their thin membranes, then mixed with rock salt and sumac. Thin slices of liver and heart are sautéed in butter with dried and green onions and seasoned with spices. The dish is served between slices of bread.

KİSTANZİYE Mustard, Dairy Products

Lamb tenderloin is marinated in pomegranate molasses, pepper paste, and oil. The cubed meat is cooked over medium heat and served with a sauce made of wholegrain Dijon mustard, black pepper, blue poppy seeds, cherries, cherry juice, honey, olive oil, and anise seeds.

İSKİLİP DOLMA Dairy Products

Beef is cooked for five hours in a large cauldron with rice grown in the Hittite region (Çorum). The rice is placed in a special cloth, sealed with dough, and cooked for another three hours. The dish is served by shredding the cooked beef over the pilaf-like rice.

MALAK DESSERT Gluten, Dairy Products, Nuts

Flour milled from the region's wheat is roasted in butter, hot water is added, and the mixture is cooked to a pudding consistency. The dessert is topped with melted butter mixed with molasses and garnished with walnuts before serving.

NINDA.LAL (Honey Bread)

Sourdough whole wheat bread dough is enriched with honey before baking. Once baked, the bread is drizzled with honey while still warm and served.

Let us conclude with an idiom from the Hittite language. Aşşu Adatar. “May the sweetness of our tongue endure”.

In Ottoman and Turkish culture, there is a habit of eating from the same plate which was frequently occurred for large and single-piece dishes. During the feasts-celebrations, the elders of the family or the society used to sit around a table together and eat meals cooked in a traditional stone oven which were served in large pots and bowls. And everyone used to eat from the part before themselves as the rules of good manners.
